History

It is with justifiable pride that we place on record that Christ College at Puliyanmala is another footprint of the eminent educational achievements of St Joseph Province of the Carmelites of Mary Immaculate (CMI). The vision of St Kuriakose Elias Chavara, an educationalist and social reformer of the nineteenth century in the State of Kerala, was the impelling force for the founding of the college. It was in the year 2014 and is run by Carmel Vidya Peet Trust, affiliated to Mahatma Gandhi University (Affiliation No: 3521/1/14/Ac A VII) Kottayam, Kerala.

Impressively situated in the arresting environment of the cardamom hills of Puliyanmala, Idukki, this college is a centre for higher education. With its remarkable eco-friendly campus awash with cool fresh air, occasional thin layers of snowflakes and admirable infrastructure, the college has become the cynosure of all.

Having had a noble beginning at Chavara Arcade, Kattappana in 2014 with just 3 courses, 78 students and 10 full time academic faculty, aided by the never failing hand of the Almighty and the dedicated teamwork of the efficient staff, the college has now risen to 8 courses, with 672 students and 38 academic scholars in the various Departments of Commerce, Management, Tourism, English, Economics, Computer Application, History, Mathematics, Malayalam and Hindi. In the year 2019-20 the Commerce Department was upgraded to a Postgraduate Department with M.Com. Finance and Taxation. In the same year National Service Scheme too was begun in the college, to imbibe the spirit of service- mindedness in the youth.

Nothing exceptional was ever achieved without great enthusiasm, strong vision and in letter and spirit this is seen in our humble venture.

With 'Light to Enlighten' as our motto, it becomes imperative that we outperform ourselves each time. Our remarkable transition from our humble beginning as a college to a reputed college has only proved our commitment to our goals and has reinforced our resolve to strive further to propel Christ College to the league of world class colleges.

With great enjoyment and pleasure, we put forward the next dynamic piece of creativity, freedom, self-expression and enthusiasm of our year's work through the second edition of our college magazine "CHRISTELLE 2020", which is an amalgamation of the year long work of talented souls along with the blend of unique tastes from each one who has contributed for this magazine.

'Christelle' is more than just a magazine where the potentials, talents, achievements and vision of our college get reflected. This is that proud moment when our teachers and students take pride in their hard work and cherish the fruits of their labour and sincerity of the year that has gone by.

I acknowledge the entire team that has worked for the magazine with love and gratitude for their immense effort and hard work. Above all I thank the Almighty for all the blessings He has showered on us in this journey.

The future looks brighter than ever before, for we have a dream and we work diligently to make it a reality.

SIKKIM: A MEMOIR

After completing my Masters in 1990, while teaching at a parallel college in Kattappana, it was my hobby to apply for all the job advertisements seen in newspapers, the only available media in those days. Thus, I received a call letter for an interview outside Kerala after having a detailed analysis of pros and cons, I decided to go ahead. It was for the first time that I travelled in a train outside Kerala. My first experience of travelling by a train was when I got an opportunity to see Pope John Paul II. That was a free trip from Changanasherry to Kottayam. I didn't even have the common sense to book a ticket for a train journey but I managed to mount a Calcutta bound train. With the help of God Almighty and co passengers I reached Calcutta and from there to Siliguri by train. One Malayali army officer helped me to reach the bus station and he bought me a bus ticket to Gangtok at twelve noon, and he bid me goodbye at eight in the morning.

Fortunately, I met two other Malayali people who had come for the interview, which I was going to attend. But they took ticket in another bus. While talking with them, I met Mr Jayapraksh Mishra from Orissa, who came to attend the interview for teaching commerce. With him I reached Gangtok at 6 in the evening and got into a single room in a hotel. In the room I saw two mattresses on the cot, and there was no blanket. By arranging the two beds and using a thin bed sheet, I managed to sleep in that freezing cold. In the morning, I had a bath in the water which could measure about 4 degree Celsius. It was only later that I came to know that, out of the two mattresses one was a quilt intended to cover the body and there was an electric heater in the bathroom for hot water.

I got ready and went for the interview. I was astonished to see numerous Malayali people there. There were eight Malayalis for Commerce itself. Mr Poyil Ravindranath, the P.A to Education Director in the interview board was a half Malayali. Shortly after my interview, he asked me, whether there was anyone in Sikkim to communicate with me after leaving Sikkim. I came back to Kerala and after two months, in the beginning of March, I received the appointment letter. This time I booked the train ticket myself.

My institution was in a mountainous region called Pelling in the district of Geyzing (West Sikkim). Mr Jeffo Joseph from Aluva was there in the institution, for six months, and then he went back to Kerala, as he got another job. Till then we stayed together at the government quarters. But by then I had made contact with the colleagues and Malayali people in that area, which helped me to continue there. Letters, which will be arriving once in a month from home, was the only medium of communication then. After the establishment of cable T.V and dish T.V communication became easier.

Now here are some interesting facts about Sikkim. It is the second smallest State in India. The population was only four lakhs at the time I reached there, of which only 50% of the people were literate. But today, they have attained the fifth position in literacy rate. Many of the students, I taught at Sikkim in 12th Standard were older than me. It was through the help and hospitality given by the Principal, colleagues and students and also by adjusting myself to the culture and tradition of Sikkim, that I was able to complete twenty one years in educational service.

In 2011, an earthquake occurred in Sikkim, which killed almost sixty people. In that October, I was awakened by the loud noise and screaming of people just to witness the crashing of a four storied building. There was no contact with home for three days. And it was one of the serious occasions in my life, where I saw the hand of an omnipresent God.

In 2013, I returned to Kerala taking voluntary retirement because of my desire to stay with my family. But that State, the people there, that village where I spent the major part of my life, which gave me immense pleasure and a splendid experience, is always a spec in my memory that cannot be erased.

THE SUCCESSFUL DETERMINATION STORY

A jobless man applied for the position of 'office boy' at a very big company. The employer interviewed him, then a test: clean the floor. Then the employer said 'you are hired'. Give me your E-mail address and I'll send you the application to fill, as well as when you will start'. The man replied, 'I neither have a computer nor an E-mail address. 'I'm sorry', said the employer, 'If you don't have an E-mail, you cannot get the job'.

The man left with no hope. He didn't know what to do with only Rs.500/- in his pocket. He then decided to go to the supermarket, bought 10kg tomato crate, then sold the tomatoes door to door. In less than two houses he succeeded and doubled his capital.

He repeated the same three times and returned home with Rs.1500/-. The man realized that he could survive in his own way, and started to go every day earlier and returned late.

Five years later, the man's company was one of the biggest food retailers in the State. He started to plan his family's future, and decided to have a life insurance.

Abhishek Vinod
(II B.Com., F&T)

He called an insurance broker and chose a protection plan. When the conversation was concluded, the broker asked him for his E-mail. ID The man replied: 'I don't have an E-mail. ID

SUCCESS

Success depends on the number of mistakes which we have made in our life. When a barber makes a mistake it becomes a new hair style. When a cook makes a mistake it becomes a new recipe. In the same way when a student makes a mistake it is a step to success. The mistakes which you make in your life will one day be the secret of your success just like a scientist.

A BALANCE SHEET

It was a hot summer afternoon. I was sitting alone in my office room, busy with some serious reading but was abruptly interrupted by a call at my door, “Excuse me sir”. As usual I said “Yes, please”. It was a student with a simple doubt. “Sir, could you tell me how this statement does to the balance sheet of a firm, how a source of fund creates an asset?”. The subject was hard-core finance or precisely accounts. I was busy with Organisational Behaviour or precisely self-management at that point of time. I wondered for moment, how commerce teachers switch over, thanks to our ability to speak, “something about everything”. But after she left with whatever clarification I could offer, for a moment I thought about the balance sheet of life. I tried to link what I was working on with the student’s doubts.

A balance sheet tells us what the firm owns and what it owes. Perhaps you get to know what you own, from where you acquired and the sources to which you owe. In finance these equations balance.

I pondered over my life: what do I own? Since how long do I own them and for what period in future will I continue to do so? How did I acquire these? To whom do I owe? Does the balancing act work? It is confusing. I initially thought but introspection brought in clarity. I had to apply serious thought to what my assets are, which I owned in the past and continue to own now. Movable property? Immovable property? Gold? Silver? Money? Certainly not! These have not been mine but someone gave it to me for some time and I will entrust it to someone else in due course. The realisation that I have only some of these and that too only for sometime in my life, made me feel sad and this sad feeling creates an urge to acquire more. Clarity struck when I started viewing my life as an asset. The fact that I was given an opportunity to live in this world with eyes to see, ears to hear, legs to walk, hands to work.....and so on, such a precious gift, such valuable assets. But again the greatest asset was that I have an intellect to think right and a conscience to uphold values that are good for all, that visualizes virtues in every human being, that loves and learns to accept love. This asset has no depreciation, it is sharpened with knowledge and strengthened through experience and learning. This asset is permanent i.e in nature and can never go fictitious; it is never written off. It can be expended with retention manifold i.e the more I give the more I own.

Dr. Prakash. C
Dept. of Commerce

This asset is given to all human beings alike, all over the world. None can say that there is more or less in him in quality or in quantity. It is uniformly bestowed as a gift and not acquired for cash. In that case, is the asset side of the balancer sheet of every human being similar? Certainly yes.

Oh!!! Sorry! I have left out the liability side. The balance sheet has to have the other side. We tried to identify the asset, but to whom do we owe this for? The universal uniform balance sheet of life has the same figures on both sides like your balance sheet in accounts. But the prime difference is that it has the same amount or values for all mankind, rich or poor, Hindu, Christian or Muslim, American or Indian. It knows no religion, caste, creed, colour or any other differences. Other balance sheets are manmade. Let us build up strong balance sheets for business, trade and industry but the basic balance sheet of life can never be ignored. It sustains all of us at all times; others may come and go.

The afternoon musings gave me some insights, which I thought I would share, if foolish, sorry please, if meaningful in some way. You too can ponder and visualise your balance sheet of life.

HOW TO BE MOTIVATED? HOW DO WE GET INSPIRED?

These are the most important questions for a person who tries to develop or one who needs success in his life.

A magician said that the secret of his magic will never be disclosed to others because if the trick is known to everyone then it will never create any impact on the viewers.

It is the same for the key of life. Success can only be achieved through how we get inspired or how we get motivated.

The ultimate need of inspiration is developed from problems. Without problems there is no life. So we need solutions. Ultimately motivation and inspiration have an impact not only on success but also in overcoming the struggles of life. Dream is another factor which leads to motivation and inspiration. The Missile man of India inspired us to develop or attain success through our dreams. Failure is the unavoidable feeling in life which leads to motivation and inspiration. Pain from the worry about life, worry about family etc. will mount pressure on us to be motivated to overcome the losses. Motivation and self- inspiration should be generated from our own selves; then only we can overcome it.

As we start thinking about our life, we need self-motivation. The problems that arise will take us to the dream of overcoming, the dream may lead to failures, failures will give inspiration and motivation will lead to success.

DEPARTMENT OF COMPUTER SCIENCE

Department of Computer Science offers programmes on software developing, designing and implementation. For making the students employable in the field of software developing the department has taken much initiative for giving on-the-job training for the students. For this we have made on-job-training PHP and Dot.Net with MVC in collaboration with Claveland Technologies, Erattupetta having a mix of highly qualified and experienced faculty from both academic and management background. The faculty members have established a sound foundation in various aspects of teaching. Hence students easily understand and find interest in applying knowledge in pursuing their degrees. As a result majority of our students are placed in MNCs like Deloitte. The Computer department works exceptionally well with the implementation and execution of various methods of technological pedagogy. It involves both theoretical and practical lessons. The department currently offers BCA honours and add-on courses.

THE REALITIES OF LIFE

As humans, we base our lives on social interaction. We learn to live through various means of socialization from the time we are born. Without this socialization and interaction with each other we can become very disillusioned and confused about society. One would tend to isolate oneself; existed in this place we call the world.

In Katherine Mansfield's short story, "Miss Brill" one such person, herself a kind of outcast of society, creates a fantasy world in which she is at the center. "Miss Brill" is the story of a woman battling against loneliness. She partakes in a ritual in which every Sunday she would spend the entire afternoon at the local park eavesdropping and observing the people around her. She takes note of everything from the clothes to the actions.

She takes pride in her ability to eavesdrop. Miss Brill excludes herself from the rest of the people. Miss Brill quickly distances herself even from the elderly people around her.

Anjana Aji
(II BCA)

---

She was different from them. Miss Brill associates and relates herself to the younger and attractive people, the people for whose society is the most acceptable. She watches everyone around her as if she were viewing a play. She seems to refuse to deal with the idea that she is a common woman similar to women of her age. She seems to do this by turning everything ordinary in to fantasy. 'Miss Brill' character is described as a tortured soul and she chooses to escape than to deal with her life.

Whether you agree or not, we all have been ignoring the harsh realities of life for quite some time. Even though we are technically advanced, we are travelling backward when it comes to seeking the real meaning of life.

SEARCH FOR SILENCE IN A NOISY INDIA

A loud sound is secular in its crime. It affects the fetus in the womb.

Like any good anecdote changing its backdrop, this one has lately shifted to Finland mildly but candidly Finland had begun selling its silence. It is inviting people to savor this splendid gift with which it is blessed by nature.

Once upon a time, not long ago India contained innumerable citadels of silence.

This was also the country which consciously cultivated the culture of inner silence, through yoga and meditation. Our culture of silence has not been able to save them. It is an irony that while we have become alert to some extent about air pollution, we hardly recognize the menace that is auditory pollution, to which we as individuals contribute more directly.

Research has repeatedly informed us that our exposure to high levels of noise would instantly affect our nervous system and subsequently cause cardiac problems along with several other ailments.

None of the great religious builders of Hindu, Buddhist, Christian or Islam sent their prayers to the supreme power through loudspeakers. Undoubtedly there are sensible elements in all the communicates and without waiting for national policies to evolve or the judiciary to intervene, they can sit down and decide to check noise running riot.

In the novel 'And Quiet Flows the Dawn' a chatterbox would always begin with 'good word is a piece of silver' till someone reminded him, "but silence is golden; why don't you exchange your silver for gold?". There is no chance we will fall for that temptation.

BITCOIN: THE VIRTUAL CURRENCY

Febin Babu
(II BCA)

Bitcoin is a digital currency that was started in 2009. It uses peer-to-peer technology to facilitate instant payments. This is designed to allow users to process transactions through digital units of exchange called bitcoins. Transactions are verified by network nodes through cryptography and recorded in public distributed ledges called Black chain. It was invented using the name Satoshi Nakamoto and its source code was released as open source software.

The bitcoins are created as a reward for a process known as mining. They can be exchanged for other currencies, products and services. However it has been criticized for its use in illegal transactions, its high electricity consumption price, volatility and thefts from exchange as a currency. Also there is a possibility that governments might force merchants to not use bitcoins to ensure that users' transactions can be tracked.

As a conclusion it could be stated that, though a modern form of currency, Bitcoin has not gathered much popularity, thus, failing to realize the full potential of the software that otherwise might be beneficial to modern economy. Here, a positive approach towards the emerging virtual currency might open new opportunities in the economic sphere. Therefore the need is to enable the acceptance and functioning such digital forms of currency in the Indian market.

Since there is no way for third parties to identify, track, or intercept transactions that are denominated another advantage of this software is that sales taxes are not added on any purchases like other online payment systems. Bitcoin users can pay for their wins from whoever they have internet access. This means that for purchasing one does not have to travel to a bank or a store to buy a product.

Bit coins are still accepted only by a very small group of online merchants. This makes it unfeasible to completely rely on this software .After early proof-of-concept transactions the first major uses of bitcoin were black market such as silkroad. During its 30 months of existence beginning in 2017 it rose to $ 13412.44 on January 2018 after reaching its all-time high of $ 1978.06 on 17 December 2017.

Further, the bitcoin payments are processed through a private network of computers linked through shared programme. Each transaction is simultaneously recorded in a block chain on each computer that uptakes and informs all accounts. Bitcoin purchases are discrete. Unless a user voluntarily publishes by bitcoin transactions, his purchases are never associated with his personal identity much like cash-only purchases and cannot be tracked back to him.

TROLLS & TROLLING

Arya Sasi
(III BCA)

In Internet slang, a troll is a person who starts quarrels or upsets people on the Internet to distract and sow discord by posting inflammatory and digressive, extraneous, or off-topic messages in an online community such as a newsgroup, forum, chat room, or blog with the intent of provoking readers into displaying emotional responses and normalizing tangential discussion, whether for the troll's amusement or for a specific gain. Both the noun and the verb forms of "troll" are associated with Internet discourse. However, the word has also been used more widely. Media attention in recent years has equated trolling with online harassment. There are competing theories of where and when "troll" was first used in Internet slang, with numerous unattested accounts of BBS and UseNet origins in the early 1980s or before. The English noun "troll" in the standard sense of 'ugly dwarf' or giant dates to 1610 and comes from the Old Norse word "troll" meaning giant or demon. In the physical world there is an inherent unity to the self, for the body provides a compelling and convenient definition of identity. The norm is: one body, one identity ... The virtual world is different. It is composed of information rather than matter. Social media is an excellent way to engage with the world around you and a great way for brands and companies to engage with users. While it can be a very positive thing, on the offense is important, along with knowing how to respond to a troll's comments and criticism. I hope you find this article helpful!

By and large, internet trolls are happy to upset anyone. In fact, they don't care if you are famous or an ordinary person who is not in the limelight.

you'll probably run into trolls on the internet. Trolls can be a bad thing or they can be a good thing! You have to know how to deal with trolls. Staying

There are many examples of trolling on social media. Many of those who carry out trolling do so because they think it's funny. ... It's thoughtless, cruel, and harmful and can lead to some serious consequences such as depression, self-harm, or even force those who have experienced trolling to contemplate or attempt suicide leaving families and friends to live with the aftermath. Trolls are not merely a humorous part of our zeitgeist and do pose a few problems for consideration. The first is that you can't actually do much about them. Their behavior is largely out of your control, despite how normal, rational people might feel about what they're saying.

The deepest, darkest place on the internet, where the most inappropriate and inhumane come to congregate isn't the Dark Web. It's the comments section of any single YouTube video. There is no better place to witness misguided, white-hot anger, combined with sheer stupidity bubbling at its most venomous boiling point. "The haters gonna hate," as one wise sage put it. Quickly taking anything constructive you put forth and transforming it into an attack on a religious group, political party, and eventually, somebody's mother. The only reprieve from this insidious troll is when the latest version of Halo is released. This usually provides a brief respite when Troll B spends many uninterrupted hours mutilating other Angry, Unemployed Teenagers in cramped, smelly rooms. It is an example of internet trolling.

Trolls are those abusive haters who seem to have more than enough time to spill their bile across the Internet, as everyone knows. But lesser known is that, as trolls try to tear you down, they can actually play an important role in personal or product brand-building. As seemingly destructive as arguing about human rights, the Packers or the differences between tomatos versus vinegar-based barbecue may seem, nothing makes advocates feel better about themselves than an opportunity to defend their position on your behalf.

Anyone who takes a position — good or bad — will eventually find themselves face to face with the stereotypical screaming asshole who has nothing better to do than stream senselessness and spittle over Facebook, Twitter or elsewhere. Another role that trolls play is to help you define who you are and what you want to become. Being able to say, "I don't want to be like them!" can help you decide who or what you do want to become. Being backed into a corner helps us come out reimagined. Of course, haters can be bullies that pick on the weak. But such nonbelievers and naysayers play an important role. By targeting our fallibility they strengthen our beliefs. While trying to weaken us, they can make us feel stronger about what we believe in. By poking at us, they make us more powerful. While trolls try to destroy us, they can actually create the opposite effect.

Toxic life

The sunrays reached the window sill. Tom felt sluggish to get up- a long day ahead rests before him in this toxic world. He took his toothbrush and paste with dismay he thought fluoride, triclosan and much more to keep our little teeth shiny. He dressed up and looked handsome and as a berry to the cake perfumed his body. All the sweet smell of petrochemicals- colouques, ethanol, isopropyl, alcohol etc. sin but need of the time to be aromatic.

The aroma from kitchen led him to the table, there he was attracted by the mouth-watering dishes. All home-made but instant 'ready to cook' meals. He swallowed the food mechanically, driven by the poisonous pleasure- Aspartame, Benzoic acid, and emulsifiers. MSG, Potassium Bromate, Sodium Nitrate. "It's wise to avoid food to live a long life. He murmured while getting into the car for work.

Waiting in the long traffic block, he painfully realized the strength of Pollution, the century's biggest contribution to earth- Carbon Monoxide, Methane, Sulphur Dioxide CFC etc. Reaching his office and being in the and air-conditioned room, he again set bell to his contribution to pollution.

The working of computers, snacks, beverages all played their pant to kill the clean environment and oneself. At last after a tiresome day when he felt sleepy he didn't forget to switch on 'Good Night', the mosquito repellent, which again emitted 'allethrin.'

Earth is the perfect place to keep oneself safe on the assumption that ceteris paribus (other things remaining the same). It was a wonder how Tom is surviving in this intoxicated world consciously, like a frog trapped in a well with decaying snake along with it.

DECISION MAKING

Every time when I take a decision in my life I prefer to consult several persons including my parents, teachers or even friends to have a better suggestion. But eventually the final decision comes from myself. If the result of that decision is a failure, I never get frustrated since the decision was from my side. A true decision maker may pursue better decision through several experiences. We should only follow the decisions made by others up to a point. When we acquire the maturity to think and proceed, we should also consult ourselves. At times it had been proved that the decisions from our side rather than the ones from others had spelled success. If Lucy Gray (the young girl as portrayed in the ballad "LUCY GRAY" by 'William Wordsworth') had neglected the decision made by her father, she could have been living for so many years. So her life also teaches us an additional lesson that we should also have our own way of decision making. If we look at the traditional belief of our own customs and beliefs, it is clear and evident that the major decision makers of a family were the men. But when traditions no longer gives women their rightful role as decision makers, it enabled them to express their own views and ideas which further enhances decision making. Now-a-days decision making has proved to be an act which helps creativity in a person to flourish. So, being brilliant, educated or talented is not-going to help you as much as a better decision making ability.

(II B.A., Economics)

DEMONETIZATION - THE RIGHT MOVE AT THE WRONG TIME?

Demonetization-a weapon to curb black money,counterfeit currency and terrorism.

Demonetization has made a big impact on the lives of every Indian but the one who was struck most was the aam admi-the daily wage agricultural or construction worker, the neighborhood petty-shop owner and all else who depend on their daily earnings for a livelihood.the fisher folk, the migrant labourers, and most of the informal sector workers like those who work in salons, the salespersons in the garment shop, the suppliers in small hotels, street vendors and the list goes on.

What went wrong with the decision of currency withdrawal is a question that needs to be addressed. Everybody points to a common mistake .The rush with which this decision was implemented not giving enough time for the printing of new currency notes and notes of smaller denominations before withdrawing it overnight and asking people to go digital is not a wise decision in a country where more than half of the population depends on paper currency to meet their day-to-day needs.

Anumol Shaji
(II B.A., Economics)

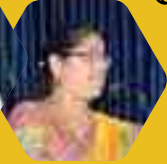

---

Before making the move to withdraw money from circulation, people should have been acquainted with digital transactions on a large scale so that the shock of sudden transition could have been avoided. Indeed, the currency withdrawal was not altogether a false decision but it's the implementation process that went wrong. An important merit was the fall in prices of goods and services. When we weigh the merits and demerits side by side it will be the demerit side consisting of hardships and miseries that scale up for the common man.

NATIONAL SERVICE SCHEME

The National Service Scheme (NSS) was officially started on 24th September 1969, to establish a meaningful linkage between the campus and the community. The vision and mission of Mahatma Gandhi had recognized that the country could not progress in a desired direction until the student youth were motivated to work for the up-liftment of the villages/community. Therefore, student youth, teachers and the community are considered as the three basic components of the National Service Scheme.

We are happy to be a part of NSS since 2019 July 29. It was a golden day for Christites with the presence of Professor M.J Mathew (Programme co-coordinator of NSS, Mahatma Gandhi University) who had inaugurated the NSS Unit. The advisory board is managed by Rev. Dr. Alex Louis (The Principal and Chairman of advisory board), Mr. Bibinmon Varghese (the Convener and NSS Programme Officer) and members of the advisory board Mr. Boban T. Augustine (H.O.D Commerce) Ann Mary Augustine (H.O.D Economics), Tony Mathews Panicker (College co-ordinator) Mr. M.C Biju (Municipal Councilor) Mr. Josukutty Thakidippuram (P .T.A President) and Beyon Benoy, volunteer Secretary of NSS.

Christ Talky is a type of campus radio that is run by the students of Christ College, Puliyanmala. Many colleges have their own radio stations and campus newspapers. Now, of course, newspapers and radio have fallen based on times. But as college radio stations and newspapers start to look less like vocational peep and more like campus literary magazines, I wonder if we are missing an opportunity. At their best newspapers and radio stations allow not only for the production of contents but for real camaraderie. It helps to attract and keep audiences, and also provides parameters against which students can strain productively. Ideally, we would love to give students a venue that's both creative and vocationally relevant. We could just ignore changes and go on our merry way, treating college media like intramurals. 'Christ Talky' is a budding initiative from the Department of English which was officially inaugurated on August 6, 2019

WHERE HAVE ALL THE GOOD TEACHERS GONE NOW?

Many of us have fond memories of a particular teacher who left a mark on our lives, who changed our lives in some meaningful way. Where have all these teachers gone to-day? The real challenge of this era is to find excellent teachers, who can be remedial tutors, mentors and makers.

Sangeetha Soman
(Dept.of English)

Real teachers simply do not exist. We as a nation have erased the framework and the climate to create good teachers. In our hurry to become a super- power, we forget the elementary. We started first by creating Engineers, followed by Doctors. Then we created an army of generalists who claim to be educated, have proper degrees and could take up any of the service sector jobs.

Teachers, along with the other nation -building professionals, fell by the wayside. Why can't we have a high profile Indian education and learning service? This elite civil service could include direct as well as lateral entries and will work out ways to reform the elementary, tertiary and higher educational systems.

We need the best teachers to ensure that all the children excel. For this ,even the pedagogy should shift from teaching to learning.Children should be able to learn by themselves and teachers should be coaches and learning facilitators. There is market for a good teacher. We now need to look at the supply side. This way we can create an army of good citizens, the real demographic dividend that will propel us to become a knowledge- superpower.

Happiness is something which is difficult to describe in words. It can only be felt. Happiness is essential for leading a good life but unfortunately it is missing from the lives of most people. People have different ideas for happiness. Some believe that it can be found in money, other feel happy and content when they are in a good relationship yet others feel elated when they are doing well professionally.

Happiness is a very simple term which is used commonly. Even a small kid can tell the meaning of happiness. But how, many of us really know the meaning of true happiness and how to attain that state? Most people look for happiness outside. They believe that they can be happy if they possess certain things or be with certain people or reach a professional height. This is what they have been feeling since their childhood.

Aiswarya Biju
(II B.A., English)

If you choose to be happy and channelize your thoughts accordingly, then you attain happiness. However, it is not as simple as it looks. You need to make efforts to work on it. It is not an one-time activity.

Now while you need to look for happiness inside, at times you need to seek help from your family and friends. Many people these days suffer from depression because they choose to deal with their problems on their own and not to involve others. This is wrong. It is true happiness but it is equally important to surround yourself with positive people.

MY EXPLORATIONS DURING EXAM TIMES...

It's over! I've completed writing the examination. I've properly arranged the papers and tied it. Ten more minutes are there. I could see a marvellous mountain through the window. The window panes are opening my minds and heart towards the mountain.

That mountain fascinates me. How would it be if I get a pair of wings and gets the permission to fly through the window to the peak of the mountain? I'm sure that it won't be anything like Dante's mountain journey. That thick vegetation compels me to walk through the path beneath the canopy overcoming the obstacles. Alone...all alone...how would it be to walk through the woods? Yeah! My first step is successful. Oh! What a big mountain. I'm walking through the greenwoods. Though it's a sunlit Monday, the sunlight hardly oozes into the forest. So I'm feeling as if I am walking at night. The feathered friends realized a human coming and took flight in the sky above the forest.

I could hear the chirping of crickets. They are composing the rhythm of the woodland by resting on the logs or somewhere else. Though the birds took flight first, I can see them now flying towards me happily. Ah! I fell down. That over enjoyment

Sandra James
(III B.A., Eng)

resulted in this! No problem at all. I may also go to some abbey like Addison to solve this problem of over enjoyment. I stood up and continued to walk. I can understand that it's going to be dusk from the changes happening in the atmosphere. But however I'll reach the peak. The moon is rising from the other side of the mountain. And at last I have reached! The birds also accompanied me.

We enjoyed a lot. It has become morning. I can see the Hyades also there in the reddish eastern sky glittering due to the diffraction of sunlight.

Now I decided to walk down. I saw the crickets and birds, which left me late night, yester day. Crickets haven't done with their profession. The fowls are in a hurry to go in search of fruits and grains. The bell rang. Invigilators began to collect answer sheets. They were repeating the roll number 'twenty one'. Oh it's me. I gave the answer sheet.

But ten minutes was enough and more to make a journey.

THE CALL

*The stars in the sky
The cards of the deck
They all seemed to know
Of something that was unknown.*

*The beautiful butterfly
The treasure of the shipwreck
They all seemed to speak
Of something that was unsaid.*

*From the ends of the earth
From the depths of the ocean
I heard a whisper calling me.*

*That mysterious sound
That dying whisper
Seemed as if
It was all I needed to hear.*

*Yes! It was THE CALL
The call towards my destiny
The destiny I've waited for Waited for centuries.*

A SISTER LIKE YOU

*I'm so thankful I have a sister like you to count on.
I know you'll always be there with open arms if I need a hug
And an open mind if I need someone to understand
I am so glad I can be myself around you
You know my qualities and my faults
And you love me just the same
I am so proud to have a sister like you....
Not just for what you have accomplished
But for who you are to me
I'm so lucky to have you to talk and laugh with ,to reminisce and make new memories with.....
I can't tell you how much it means to have a sister like you...
You are the most important persons in my life
I Love you

POEM OF LIFE

*Life is like a stopping place,
A pause in what's to be,
A resting place along the road,
To sweet eternity.*

*We all have different journeys,
Different paths along the way,
We are all meant to learn somethings
But never meant to stay....*

*Our destination is a place,
Farther than we know
To some the journey's quicker,
To some the journey's slow.*

*And when the journey finally ends,
We'll claim a great reward,
And find an everlasting Peace,
Together with the Lord.*

Anu Antony
(III B.A., English)

LOVE

*I awake each day with a smile
And greet it with a laugh
The world is a treasure to me
Because of you
Every time I think of something sad
I replace the thought with you!
My mind is instantly with you!
And my heart is filled with gladness
Every breath I take is meant for you!
I have this life surrounded by you
I bathe in the promise of your love
My soul belong to you
Each time I see something beautiful
I want to take it and bring it to you
My life has so much meaning
All because of you.*

21ST CENTURY MAN

John Mathew
(II B.A., English)

“When I grow up I’m going to be a doctor, teacher, police officer, president...” The dreams nurtured during infancy have fair chances of coming to pass. And dreams are all founded, in more than a few cases, on the desire for the position and not the service it demands. The odds of knowing good doctors, good teachers, good policemen or even good presidents, are not big. These signs presage the degeneration in morality. What kind of information does a juvenile take in from the outside which numbs his ability to interrogate what he accepts, which strips him of his humanity? The responsibility for this rupture in human values can be mantled upon the society, school, and the very fabric of human foundation: family. Words like good, respectful, loyal, honest, kind are becoming foreign in nature as generations pass by: values are now rarely imbibed in a minor, is it because, “we are in a post modernist society?” - “Believing in anything we think?”

“Education has become a treadmill” says Ravi Zacharias, True! You can educate a person to a point where he becomes; capable of creating a spaceship travelling in lightyears yet no good may come of him. How many names do we know of who helped humanity in its raw form, other than Mother Teresa and a few noble minded gems. Ambani, Narendra Modi, Spielberg, James Cameron, Tiger Woods, all known for everything other than the necessary.

A boy stealing nuts and bolts from a railway track, if sent to schools and colleges to change him, get at the end of his education he will steal the whole railway track! The nature of man cannot be changed by education; education only sophisticates the man he really is. Nazi Germany the gallery of grand scholars, doctors, engineers, businessmen and officers became the most brutal, barbarous and vicious country of the twentieth century. Scholars became unhinged radicals, doctors turned into intricate killers, engineers channelled their constructive skills into destructive mechanisms by fashioning deadlier weapons, cataclysmic tanks, noxious gas chambers and sulphurous ovens, businessmen profited from the surplus emaciated Jewish labour force, and the SS Officers became the most atrocious embodiment of the Holocaust. Hitler rose as a symbol of hope to the financially shattered and globally scorned Germany, but the world knew only later the cost of their hope, an exterminated race and a crippled world. Fanatics of this nature include and are not limited to history books but are mirrored in erratic political parties, corrupted democracies, simmering racists from rioted society and overzealous professors procured by educational institutions.

Human worth is the backbone for all moral values. When man discovers the futility in the material he will look up to the indispensableness of human worth, and thereon will lie the answer to his question. And that’s how you create a human out of a homo sapiens.

A school principal who survived the Nazi camp, wrote, “I am a survivor of a concentration camp. My eyes have seen what no person should witness. Gas chambers built by learned engineers. Children poisoned by educated physicians. Infants killed by trained nurses. Women and babies shot and killed by high school and college graduates. So, I’m suspicious of education. My request is, help your students to be human. Your efforts must never produce learned monsters, skilled psychopaths, or educated maniacs. Reading and writing and arithmetics are only important if they serve to make our students more human.”

THE BLUE MOON

Athira Hari
(I B.A., English)

In that blue moon night
She built a nest with Bethlehem lily
It was not in a tree
But inside my heart

She came beside my window
As a whispering nightingale
Unknowingly in that melodious song
I felt apart

We sang that love tune together,
After that my heartbeat stopped
Before the rain fell
She went away from me

It's time to say goodbye
Now frustration hits my mind
I am seeking your voice
In the deep sleep

Like a rainbow
Now you are far away
Without knowing the reason
My soul is still searching for you

Inside my brown eyes
As a sleepy mirage
Like a hornbill wandering
In search of rain

I am seeking your voice
I am searching for your melodious song

YOUTH, POSSESSOR OF THE EMPIRE

Bibinmon Varghese
(Dept. of History)

'You must be the change you want to see in the world.' - Mahatma Gandhi

The youth of a nation shapes and molds its present and paves the way for its future. The young generation shoulders a huge chunk of the responsibility of nation building; not the politicians or the policy makers alone. It would be more accurate to say that the youth working in tandem with the government decide the fate of a nation and its coming generations. It is, therefore, important that the voices of the youth get the right platform. It is necessary that the youth gets to exercise their freedom of speech, their opinion and their ideas.

There are three key elements that contribute towards the progress of a nation. These are education, employment and empowerment. A nation develops at a steady pace when the youth of the country is educated and their education is put to right use. Majority of youths in our country are uneducated. Most of them can't read and write. So, illiteracy is one of the biggest problems of our nation. The illiterate population of our country holds back and hinders the progress of our nation. The government of our country must make special efforts to provide right education to them in order to make them think logically, rationally and open mindedly. This will help them act in a responsible manner and work for the progress of our nation. Providing employment opportunities to the unemployed and underemployed youths of the nation is also very important. Lack of employment opportunities can lead to social unrest. Thirdly, it is vital to empower the youth to take charge of their life. It is important to promote their rights and involve them in community decision-making. It is important to channelize the energy and intelligence of youths in the right direction and provide them employment opportunities as per their potential or they may move to a wrong track in life. Youths should be prevented from engaging in violent or other evil activities.

Therefore, we need to utilize the power of our youths for the progress of our nation. We must make the most of their undying energy, innovative ideas and unique perspectives. Youth is surely the most prized possession of the nation and the sooner we realize and utilize their full potential and power the faster will our nation progress and develop.

COLLEGE STRESS

Anandhu Krishna S.
(II BBA)

We all live with stress the tension we feel when confronted with a new or threatening situation. College students are no different from anyone else, as they too experience the stress and strains of living in to-day's world. They are constantly facing new situations where the outcome is often uncertain. They may be living on their own. For the first time their sense of self-esteem and well-being is challenged by problems and time management.

Without really understanding why, they may become angry or anxious, sad or frustrated. When young adults become overwhelmed by stress they sometimes withdraw or strike out on others. Parents often feel inadequate in responding to the stress experienced by children. While there are easy answers to their problems, parents may find the following suggestions helpful in dealing with college stress.

Stress is not always bad. An appropriate level of stress can effectively motivate your children toward growth, achievement and self satisfaction.

Talk about it: Talking with a trusted adult helps students feel they do not carry the burden of stress alone. Encourage your children to discuss their feelings but refrain from telling them how they should feel.

Slow down: The fast pace of your complex is often stressed in itself. College students living at home need privacy and quiet time and unstructured time so that they can exercise their imagination and process the events of the day.

Put life into perspective: College students often become obsessed with the present moment. They may feel overwhelmed because they cannot see beyond the immediate problem. They have difficulty in identifying options and alternatives. Help your child understand that problems have solutions. Also help them to recognize temporary confusions and lasting values. Stress can often be reduced by reminding them that life goes on and tomorrow can be better than today.

Why Stock Market is important for economy

Stock market is an important part of the economy of a country. The stock market plays a pivotal role in the growth of the industry and commerce of the country that eventually affects the economy of the country to a great extent. That is the reason why the government, industry and even the central banks of the country keep a close watch on the happenings of the stock market. The stock market is important from both the industry's point of view as well as the investor's point of view.

Whenever a company wants to raise funds for further expansion or setting up a new business venture, they have to either take a loan from a financial organization or they have to issue shares through the stock market. In fact the stock market is the primary source for any company to raise funds for business expansions. This is the primary function of the stock exchange and thus they play the most important role of supporting the growth of the industry and commerce in the country. That is the reason why a rising stock market is the sign of a developing industrial sector and a growing economy of the country. The secondary function of the stock market is that the market plays the role of a common platform for the buyers and sellers of these stocks that are listed at the stock market. In fact it is these stock market traders who raise the funds for the business by investing in the stocks.

So the stock market is not only providing the much required funds for boosting the business, but is also providing a common place for stock trading. It is the stock market that makes the stocks a liquid asset unlike the real estate investment. It is the stock market that makes it possible to sell the stocks at any point of time and get back the investment along with the profit. This makes the stocks much more liquid in nature and thereby attracting investors to invest in the stock market.

Around the Orbit

Travel etches memories. Conquer your fears. Imagine one at 70 is on the deathbed; and if that one is I the sports car I've bought or the six digit salaries I've earned won't satisfy me or won't provide me inner peace. But I travel through various dimensions of my confused mind by visiting various places and travelling. Meeting strangers, waking them my acquaintances, I could talk about different moments that I have experienced. Like the time I spent the day wandering, making up along with the rising sun, ending the day by wishing late to galaxy under the stars. How I made memories while everyone else made possessions! How I, discovered myself by entering the altered state of mind, leaving all my negative vibes behind. How I decided to live my life as the way I love to!

Joel Mathew Roy
(III B.Com., T&T)

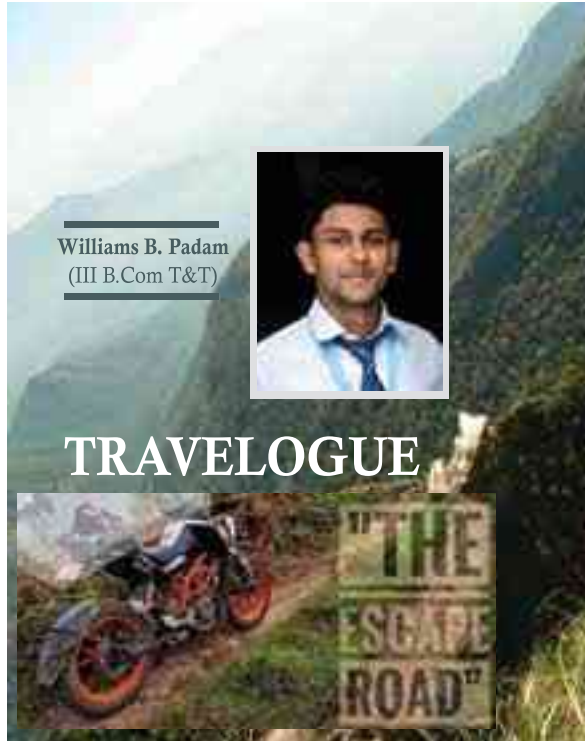

We all love to travel, right? We all love to get lost into the unknown and discover the hidden beauties of its wilderness. Let me introduce you to such an amazing and mind lifting path to every wanderlust here, who would want to brush off the weariness from the soul with a beautiful trip to the heart of nature: "THE ESCAPE ROAD". Before going into the details, let me warn you that this door is open only for adventurers.

ESCAPE ROAD is a route which is currently closed by the Kerala Government & the Government of Tamil Nadu, regarding issues of ownership preventing the entry of any person, but if considered it is the rainiest & eco-friendly route that you can take to Kodaikanal.

The journey starting from the top station of Munnar not only reduces the distance of 49 km of travel but gives you an opportunity to witness the raw nature and its varied wild life species. Starting from wild elephants and lions, the headlong travel among the thick forest of Escape Road, may introduce you to even the leopards; if you are lucky enough for their gaze.

The most interesting species that will be welcoming you are snakes; you will encounter all kinds of these venomous creatures. So beware! The route which was closed in 90's was actually a trading path which linked both the States. It was through these roads that people transported all kinds of commercial items to each side.

Williams B. Padam
(III B.Com T&T)

TRAVELOGUE

Currently the path is strictly under the supervision of the concerned authorities, and the entry through this closed path is only possible through local supports or the influence of powerful parties. The trade of vegetable is still frequent through this road, which is currently supervised. What I aim to put before is the idea that, if the issues between both the Governments are settled and this road is open again, this ESCAPE ROAD will be a flourishing tourist path that may give hype to tourism in that area.

Jesus Youth

“The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom”- the Holy Bible

Jesus Youth is an international Catholic movement approved by the Holy See. The movement evolved as an outcome of the charismatic revival that spread across India in the middle of 1970s. The aim of Jesus Youth is to ignite the Lord’s message into the young minds in the campus. As a part of this we also began Jesus Youth mission in our college last year with a small group of Christian students. They meet every Friday in the morning at one of the conference halls of the college for a common prayer. Gradually, the number of members increase in this divine group and today this is one of the key inter-organisations of the college. It is a proud factor that 20 of our Jesus Youth participated in the Kerala Campus Conference (KCC) held at Bharat Mata College Thrikkakara, Ernakulam. Along with this monthly Holy Mass and confession are guided by Jesus Youth ministry in the college.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Alumni meet of the Christ College is an awesome day to renew bonds with classmates and cherish their relationship with faculties and staff members. Our Alumni Association creates and keeps alumni interest in their education guild and develops interest to contribute to their alma mater. Alumni meeting, is a networking event conceived to exchange experience and to share ideas with current students, faculties and staff.

ROSHAN ZACHARIA
PRESIDENT

When the world revolves at a great speed making it's being so busy, even to meet their own kin, alumni meet is an oasis in wilderness. Coming back to the institution which nurtured you to be a human in this inhuman world is an experience which cannot be incorporated into the words. The day seemed to be as if the past was brought into the present. I really experienced what we normally note as 'nostalgia'. Meeting your friends after a year's gap and sharing memories was a wonderful feel to take along with you. The unfading smiles in the faces of our Principal, teaching and non-teaching staff was an energy booster to all our souls. Hoping to attend such meet in future I wish success to all christities in your future ventures.

SHERIN BABY
VICE PRESIDENT

Coming back to a place that shaped the trajectory of one's own life is a priceless and inexplicable experience. Meeting old friends, who travelled in different directions and sharing the life experiences with them makes this coming back an unforgettable event. On 27th December, Christ college, Puliyanmala hosted such an alumni reunion. The meet saw the alumni retracing their memory lines by taking a stroll around the campus. The smiles, hugs and togetherness the campus witnessed shows that alumni meet is not just an assemblage of old students, but a wonderful coming together of people from different walks of life to reminisce the great moments that they spent with their friends in the good old days.

VISHNU SHALI
SECRETARY

It is a proud moment for an ex-christite to come back to the college and share our experience. The day was a pack of some unforgettable moments, fun, love and remembrance. When I entered the college, I was actually having goosebumps thinking about those good old days. All those flashbacks, sitting with my friends at the canteen, lawns, exams and so on. And the moment I realized how quickly time flies and how sweet memories last forever.

CHINCHU SHAJI
JOINT SECRETARY

It was a wonderful experience which helped us to get together and cherish our past experiences and moments. My communication with my friends was stopped after graduation. The meeting helped us to remain engaged and be abreast of the progress of our college. Seeing old friends with a lot of changes was a reminiscence of our good old days. This meeting was very helpful for me to sustain strong ties with others. It was also a platform for us to converse with our professors, who had a big hand in moulding our future. It was an honour to know that we are the first alumni of our college.

DENNAMOL BENNY
TREASURER

The alumni meet, which was a fun and a fascinating trip down the memory lane, gave our alumni an opportunity to see old friends again and catch up with them. Friends came across places with stories of their success and failures. Some things changed, some stayed the same. After some great conversation, all those years wherein they had not seen each other seem to just fade away.

Afterword

“Christelle 2020” reflects the vigour of the Christ College. It is an honor for us to be a part of this history, something that we will always cherish.

Christites don't just dream, they work towards realising their dreams. Then of course things happen. Working towards realising one's dreams is part of Christ College's cultural ethics.

We the Christelle team, as we express our gratitude we will never forget that “the highest appreciation is not to utter words, but to live by them”. It is with pleasure therefore that the “Team Christelle” chronicles the happenings of the year in this annual magazine.

Thank you for your continued support.

Team Christelle
